About the Course

Overall Goal

The objective of the course is to train political advisers serving in peacekeeping operations, political and peacebuilding missions by enhancing their specific knowledge and skills, and enabling them to develop a deeper understanding of ways to manage the political dimension in a conflict or post-conflict environment.

The course will cover two complementary aspects – operational activities in conflict prevention, management and resolution (mediation, facilitation, negotiation, provision of advice, building rapport and network management, internal and external coordination and cooperation, engaging non-state armed groups and unarmed actors...), as well as conventional diplomatic activities (political reporting, speech writing, public speaking, designing political strategy, liaison with governments...)

Particular attention will be paid to bringing the aspect of culture into political analysis, strategies and activities, with a view to enhancing the necessary skills to establish and maintain an effective intercultural and interreligious dialogue.

Special focus will be placed on the influence of information and communication technologies on the scope of work of political advisors, including opportunities and risks (cyber diplomacy, conflict analysis, use of social media, cyber security...).

The course will also address the role and required skills of political advisors related to public diplomacy, communications with the media, as well as information and reputation management.

Learning Objectives

By the end of the course, participants will be able to:

- Apply acquired skills and tools in research, conflict analysis and policy planning;
- Design political strategies to build alliances and create political leverage;
- Monitor, analyze and interpret political developments and events by using relevant skills and techniques;
- Use specific skills to build rapport, create and maintain network of contacts and liaise and coordinate with internal and external counterparts;
- Apply a range of skills, techniques and good practices in political dialogue, negotiation, facilitation and mediation, and use various modalities for greater inclusion of women;
- Identify risks and opportunities of information and communication technologies;
- Apply public speaking, presentation, speechwriting, and reporting techniques, – including preparation, structure, and delivery;
- Provide pertinent advice, offer new ideas and innovative solutions to change the underlying conflict dynamics;
- Identify personal strengths and weaknesses as political advisers;
- Deal with moral and political dilemmas which may arise in conflict management and resolution.

Course Details

Target Audience

The course program is designed for mid and senior level political affairs, civil affairs and other civilian, military and police officers serving in peacekeeping operations, political and peacebuilding missions (UN, AU, EU, OSCE etc.), as well as diplomats and those working in public sector, non-governmental organizations, academic institutions, or preparing to serve in peace operations. The course is balanced between the operational and tactical level, and most of the conflict management tools are catered to the field work.

Content and Structure

The virtual course will take place over a period of five days, from 12 – 16 February 2024 via the online platform Zoom. The training will consist of lectures and facilitated discussions by senior experts and practitioners in the field, and the activities are devised to be highly interactive through discussions, Q&A sessions, group work, role-play and hands-on exercises and assignments. A virtual space will be provided for group discussions and best practices and experience sharing among the participants under the guidance of the senior mentor.

Upon completion of the course, certificates of participation will be issued in PDF, and a hard copy can be sent via post upon request.

Technical Requirements:

In order to join the virtual training, all attendees should have access to the internet and a personal computer (laptop), with an operational camera and microphone (external or internal). A stable internet connection is essential in order to minimize the chances of stutter or disconnection. It is advisable that the participants download the Zoom application (free of charge). It is also possible to join a meeting directly from a web browser, but the meeting experience and available features are limited. The participants will receive all necessary information in the joining instructions prior to the start of the course.
